Challenge-an invitation to a contest. Every day we are being invited to a contest.

Whether we are at work, school, or just having fun, we are being challenged to live daily Christian lives.

The professors, students, the student council, the varsity sport player, the societies, the administration — we are all being challenged.

Professors — challenged to teach us through their own specialized knowledge;

Students — challenged to become independent from home; to be Christ-like in their daily activities; to study and learn to the best of their abilities; to share and care for others;

and to be themselves, not someone else;
the varsity sports player —

challenged to do his best, having a Christian attitude while competing with other schools;

to strive for perfection in his own special talent;

Societies — challenged to create a Christ-like social atmosphere, surrounded by the non-Christian world;

Administration — challenged to keep ENC a Christ-minded center-for learning, caring, sharing, growing . . . .

Eastern Nazarene College, a school of challenges!

THE CHALLENGE OF THE '80s

The end of this academic year completes six decades for Eastern Nazarene College in Quincy, Massachusetts. There are only a few persons now living who witnessed the move from North Scituate, Rhode Island to Quincy.

President Fred Shields gave several reasons for choosing the Quincy location: outstanding educational and cultural advantages, resourceful public and university libraries, and ample opportunities for student employment. Hindsight has proven the soundness of President Shield's analysis.

Many changes resulted from the move — changes in facilities, changes in programs, and changes in personnel. However, there was no change in the committment of the school to Jesus Christ.

There were a number of individuals who dedicated the major part of their lives and strength to Eastern Nazarene College. We owe a great debt to these faithful servants.

ENC is concerned with the intellectual, social and spiritual development of the youth of our educational zone. In a real sense, we have a strong academic college with a qualified faculty and capable students. However, opportunities we enjoy are not without cost. We have dedicated people giving the best of their lives and energies to the advancement of ENC. After sixty years, we are still committed to Jesus Christ and the advancement of his kingdom.

We are just entering the decade of the '80s. The past is a prologue to the future. We have a good heritage, a loyal constituency, and a valid purpose for the future. During the next ten years, ENC will be challenged in every way possible — in finances, enrollment, social and secular pressures, and still other ways unknown to us. In the '80s we desparately need the qualities of our past leaders — a sense of mission, vision, faith and dedication.

The CHALLENGE OF THE '80s is to find dedicated Christian teachers, administrators, students and supporters who are willing to give their best to the cause of Christian higher education. The responsibility now shifts to you, the graduates of the '80s. ENC needs your resources — your intellect, devotion, time, service and committment to maintain her spiritual and academic traditions. Will you accept this challenge?

Dedicatory Behavior Of Philip Mclaren

Esther Y. Johnson, B.S.

Introduction

Philip Mclaren, known commonly as "Phil" or "Mac", is found most often in southeastern Massachusetts. Although generally considered a land animal, some investigators assert that this species is aquatic, as it is often found in the water, and can stay completely submerged for over an hour; one variety has been found with fin-like adaptations of the hind feet. P. mclaren has been observed to migrate south to the Bahama islands every January, and erratic migratory behavior has been reported during the summer months, including travel to Nova Scotia, California, and Belize.

The purpose of this paper is to report on the dedicatory behavior of Philip mclaren. I will provide conclusive evidence to show that Philip mclaren belongs in the class of creatures to whom the Nautilus has been dedicated.

Materials And Methods

I have observed Philip mclaren at regular intervals over a four year period. All necessary precautions were taken not to disturb natural behavior during my study. Observations were recorded in a standard unlined journal.

Data were collected from the following field stations: third floor Schrader Hall; 23 Davis Street; aboard the vessel Wings; in a van enroute to Miami; aboard the Shark IX in the Caribbean; Bimimi, Bahamas; Wollaston Church; Wood's Hole Oceanographic Institute.

Results

My data show that Philip mclaren is a vital link in the educational chain of Eastern Nazarene College. He demonstrates considerable knowledge in his field of biology and geology, both in the classroom and in the field. He has widened the opportunities of students by introducing scuba diving. Tropical Marine Biology travel seminar, other field courses in billogy, and student assistantships on research vessels based at Wood's Hole. He shows concern for the students he advises, and is a friend to anyone who asks. He has been particularly invaluable to the class of 1980, whch he has advised since the time he and the class were both new to E.N.C. He has been active in the Wollaston Church, and in serving as a chapel speaker. Philip mclaren is often seen demonstrating hospitality, a helping hand, and a smiling face.

Conclusion

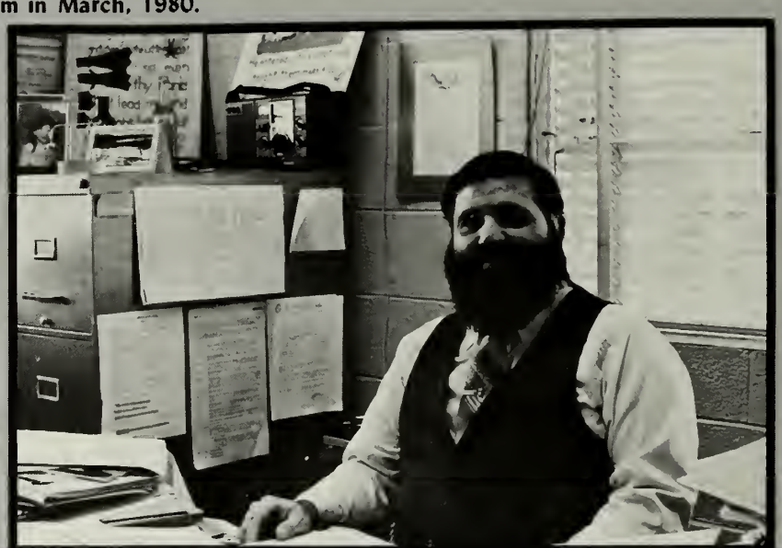

For friendship, fellowship, fun, knowledge, generosity of spirit, willingness to work, and kindness of heart, the 1980 edition of the Nautilus has been dedicated to Dr. James Philip McLaren.

Acknowledgements

Many thanks go to the subject of my study, from all of us at E.N.C.; to Mrs. Lynn McLaren, for her support of the subject; and to God, for bringing Philip mclaren to us here at Eastern Nazarene College.

Department Of Chemistry

Lowell H. Hall, Ph.D., Professor of Chemistry. B.S., Eastern Nazarene College; Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University.

For the Department of Chemistry the challenges are always the same but always changing.

There is the world around us . . .
- to understand it better
- to make better use of it
- to live at our best in it.

There are the students in our department . . .
- eager to learn
- developing into professional chemists
- seeking to bring together their learning and their faith.

Each year there are new challenges . . .
In these times chemists are working on new energy sources and new materials for construction and for clothing, better ways to maintain our health. The impact of computer technology is widespread in chemistry. Chemistry students are learning to program computers to do their calculations. They look forward to having new microcomputers interfaced to chemical instruments to manage experiments in new ways.

Each year we hear from our alumni as they tell us about their current activities. In this way we continue to see how our students are working out the challenge represented in the departmental motto-Chemistry . . . A Door to Service.

The Department of Biology represents one of the most closely knit fellowships on campus. Biology majors and faculty alike are drawn together in a true spirit of community through the multi-faceted challenge of the Life Sciences.

The rigorous course work in the department along with a sound liberal arts approach to education challenges the mind of both students and professors. We are stimulated to search, question, and stretch our minds as we apply the scientific method to problem solving. The human problems of hunger, energy needs, wise usage of resources all challenge the Biologist to deliver answers that work.

Through the many activities of Beta Phi Mu Biological Society our bodies are challenged. The climb up 5,264 foot Mt. Katahdin each fall presents a stiff challenge to the physical condition of even the best climbers. Trips to Plymouth Plantation, the Bahama Islands, Belize and Guatemala, diving trips, fish fries, the Year-end formal banquet, the used book sale, the Wollaston Beach clean-up all demonstrate the activity with which the Biology community answers the challenge to the body.

The spirit too is challenged to grow into spiritual maturity. The monthly Bible studies in the homes of faculty member and students points our eyes upward towards our Savior. Through these times of sharing we support each other and still learn more of Him.

The successes of our students in Medical School, graduate schools, in research fellowships and in research cruises testify to the foundation laid by the Biology Community in answer to the challenge of Living.

Department Of History

History with literature and philosophy are basic elements in the liberal arts curriculum. They seek to preserve knowledge of the experience, the thoughts, and the values of mankind. History faculty face the challenge of persuading students that anything which took place before 1945 has any significance for them.

History is challenged to demonstrate its utility. Parents and students ask, "What can one do with history?" Faculty members respond, "What will the study of history do for one as a person?" History provides perspective which gives greater understanding to such varied materials as the Bible and the newspaper. The student of history develops skills in reading and interpreting a wide variety of materials, in asking and responding to questions, in organizing and presenting materials in a logical and coherent manner, and in research techniques that have value in such diverse applications as law, business, reporting, government and in many academic disciplines.

Department Of English

The English language itself is a CHALLENGE, a complex tool to be used for forceful, persuasive, and precise expression and communication of ideas and feelings.

Reading the literature written in English and translated from other languages is also a CHALLENGE: to understand one's self and others, to be in touch with great minds, to think about the issues which have throughout the history of mankind been a CHALLENGE.

Physical education provides an avenue of approach through which the whole individual may be influenced for good in mind and character as well as in body. It employs the word physical to denote the means and not the end. Here in lies the challenge for those of us involved in the first year of a Physical Education Major. Our task is to use the learning and teaching of activities for a greater purpose-that takes a college education, that takes an understanding of people, that takes an understanding of the effects of activities on people.

The Psychology Department is looking to the 1980's as a time of continued growth and new challenges. The diversity of the needs of our students provides a continuing challenge, around which our programs of study are structured. This diversity provides one of the real strengths of the psychology department. In recent years, our students have shown growing interest in and support for the Psychological Society, emphasizing exposure to a variety of professional interests and resulting in increased opportunities for contact among our psychology students. We are proud of the range of experiences provided our students and delighted with the development, both personal and professional, which is common to so many of our students.

Currently, we are completing our self-study towards national accreditation. This has involved a new program curriculum design with some exciting new courses.

Students (majors) in social work are being challenged in course-work and in field practicums to prepare to become fully-qualified professional social workers upon graduation. They are also being challenged to integrate professional practice and their Christian faith.

The staff of the program are feeling the challenge to be relevant and creative in providing meaningful learning experiences. They are also finding large stimulation in their professional roles outside the college.

Preparing professional social workers who can think, communicate, and relate, and who can join these skills to a Christian commitment is both personally and professionally fulfilling. I am convinced that we are doing just that.

Freshmen Orientation

"The first week as a freshman here at E.N.C. was very confusing-trying to remember names, places, and thinking of why in the world I ever came here. But things like the student-student meetings, the tuesday night breakout, and the outdoor barbeque helped to make me feel at home. During that week we learned that E.N.C. was full of concerned people who really wanted to know us by more than the faces and numbers on our "nerd-stamped" I.D. cards."

Roller Skating

On Sept. 21, 79, the Beta Phi Mu sponsored an all night roller skate at the Norwood Skating Rink. Though the rain got everybody wet it didn't dampen our spirits and we all skated for fun! Everyone seemed to have a good time.

Heritage Day

On Oct. 2, our Heritage Day chapel was held, the guest speaker was Professor James Cameron, History Department Chairman, here at ENC. His speech was on ENC and its history, how it has been challenged throughout its years. It was attended by many; students, professors, and friends of the school.

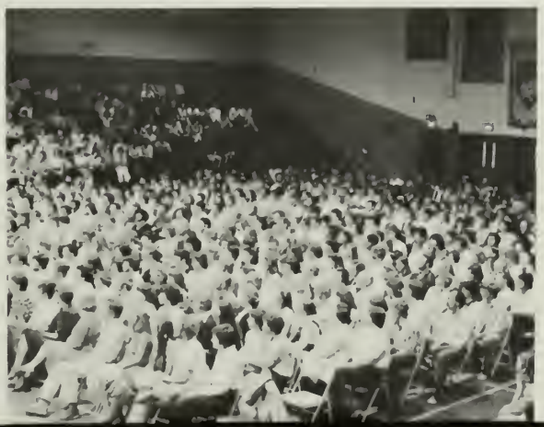

IMPERIALS Live At ENC:

Never having heard of the Imperials and not even knowing what kind of music they play, I went to the concert out of curiosity. I was not so much impressed with their music or sound as I was with their message, and their very evident spirit of sincerity. The concert was very uplifting for me.

Big-Little Sisters Party

3rd Floor Memorial's Third Annual Spookwalk

It was really well put together. I cried and screamed through the whole thing. I was really pleased to see all the hard effort put into it. A job well done!

Janet Campbell

Thrills . . . Chills . . . Terror . . . Fun! Any & all would describe the spookwalk. In a word, it was great. I've never been so scared and laughed so much at one time in my life. I can hardly wait until next year!

Ruth Griffin

"Monday night as the work began, I was remembering all the fun I'd had the year before, scaring everybody that night. I wondered if it was going to be the same this year. Wednesday night, as the make-up, blood, costumes, lights, and props appeared, the excitement of the year before spread through us and we felt ready. After a trial run we let in the people, six at a time, and the long night began. Was it fun? Ask the 300 people who went through!"

Dave Kilpatrick

Powder-Puff

Powder-puff, the annual soccer game between the upperclass and the freshmen women was played on a cold windy Friday. Connie Underwood's goal in the second overtime ended the game in a 1-0 win for the upperclasswomen. Their coach, Jim Stonelake, said he knew it would be a tough game but he was never really worried about the outcome.

Rocking chairs in the fishbowl? Is this a new addition to the furniture department of ENC? Not really, but for one night there were rocking chairs in the fishbowl. On November 9th the ENC concert band held their first annual rock-a-thon. The band was trying to raise money to go to General Assembly and the rock-a-thon was the start of the big plans for money making projects. Seventeen band members, with pillows, food, tv's, and stereos and albums began their all night rocking at 9:00 pm and they finished at 9:00 am. Was it really worth rocking all night? Not only did the band members raise a good amount of money but we had a good time doing so!

Bloodmobile

The Sophomore Class sponsored the Red Cross Bloodmobile on Monday, November 12. This bi-annual event is always well supported by the ENC community and this year's was no exception. 90 pints of blood were given to help save a life. Hats off to those who rolled up their sleeves!

Swim Party

This week proved to be a busy one for the Sophomore Class as, on the heels of the Bloodmobile, they sponsored a Swim Party. Tuesday, November 13, at the Dorchester YMCA, from 9-12 p.m., was a fun-filled and wet evening for all.

Fall Revival With Dr. Bill McCumber

Dr. McCumber reminded us to run with perseverance the race marked out before us. Through his humor, his encouragement, and his wise word many became committed to running that race. Committments made at this time laid a foundation for growth for the rest of the year.

ENC Crusaders-vs-Athletes In Action

The ENC-A.I.A.-Canada game was good. Despite their size and experience, we did quite well . . . for awhile anyway. During the First Quarter we opened up a 12 point lead but lost with a final score of 88-72.

Exodus

On Tuesday, Dec. 4, 79, the Junior class sponsored a fund-raiser by bringing Santa Claus (Doug Lee) to school to get his picture taken with the students here at ENC. For only $1.75, you could get your picture taken on Santa's lap. Here, Gary Carnahan and Hank Decker finally got their wish!

John Volpe was our special guest speaker for chapel on December 6. Here, Jim Sheets and President Irwin are presenting a special plaque honoring and recognizing his political career as former Governor and Ambassador.

DIRECTOR'S NOTE: Christmas is the season for giving gifts. This, of course, means someone has to be receiving these gifts. And yet for some reason, people still wonder about the source of Christmas time commercialism. The problem, however, should not be to worry so much about the commercialization of giving so much as those glittering and sometimes inflated expectations of receiving. Giving will always be blessed, especially creative giving.

It is the fairy-land dreams of receiving that depletes the spirit and hurts the heart when those dreams aren't fulfilled. If not for the gifts themselves, look to the Lord as the source of giving. Merry Christmas to you and to those close to you.

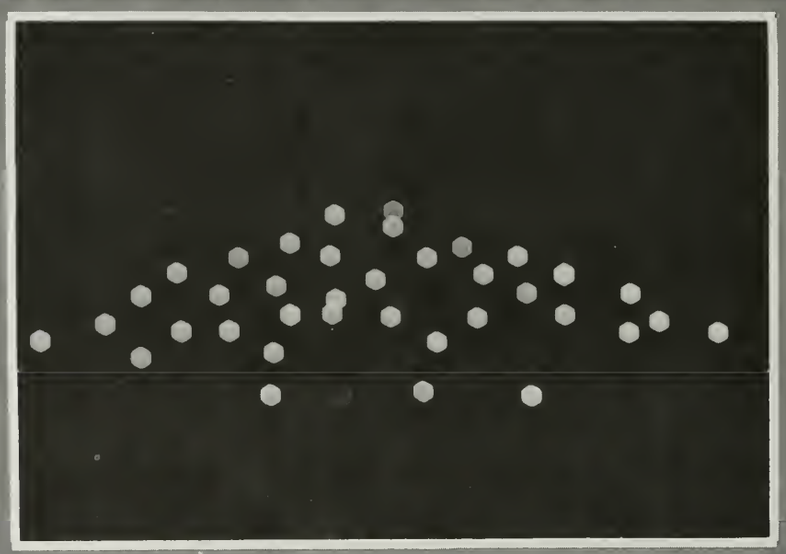

2nd DIRECTOR'S NOTE: Up to the very last minute there were changes in the program . . . even during the middle of the show! (the most important one was of course the addition of "Zanzibar". . . . Friday night's audience was smarter . . . but Saturday night's was louder. . . . Circuit breakers were "shorting" during Kevin Doolittle's number . . . and we still hadn't heard from a performer who was missing since the night before. . . . Kevin withstood his tribulations, and we didn't need our missing performer because--we had "The Spinners"! So at ENC, "That was Christmas!"

Annual Christmas Chapel

On December 11, at 10:00 am., the annual Christmas chapel was presented. The A Cappella Choir, ENC Singers, Concert Band and Brass Ensemble gave us a tremendous hour of music that we all enjoyed.

As always, the highlight of the event was the lighted Christmas tree formed by the members of the choir. Christmas chapel will always promise to be the best of every fall semester.

Greaser Day, Feb 8.

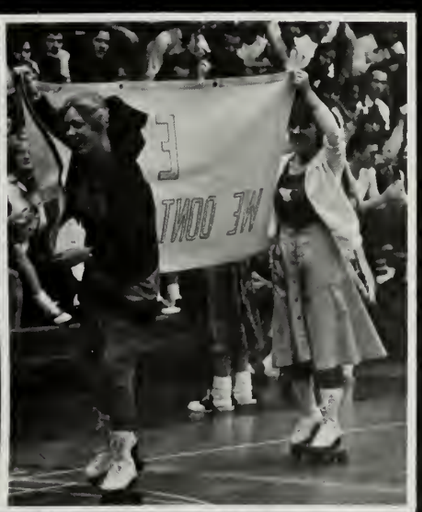

Greaser Day always seems to have spirit and this year's was no exception! The guys greased their hair while the girls put on their long skirts and everyone spent the day in fun. Dinnertime showed the usual with goldfish swallowing. John and Johnathan Cramer made the time unique by standing side by side and simultaneously chewing theirs! At the basketball game that night against Nyack College, our 50's band played some old songs that everyone seemed to enjoy, especially Stephanie Rundlett and Diane Padusis. The cheerleaders were in long skirts and cheering like usual except with a little skirt trouble. And our team beat their opponents by a good margin.

Greaser Day, 1980 turned out to be one of the best

King's Tournament 1980
'The Spirit Made the Difference'
By Ruth Griffin

When I was asked to go to King's as a reporter for the newspaper I was, to say the least, very excited. I'd been to King's twice before and I knew how tremendous it was to win. Of course, I figured I'd be covering events like Barbershop, Volleyball, or even Alumni free-throw. But . . . I was asked to write on the general spirit at King's. I'd be less than honest if I said I was really excited about that. I knew as well as anyone, our chances weren't as good for finishing first this year. Everyone there knew ENC was going to have to fight for first, not walk away with it, as we have in past years. I wondered how we as fans would handle anything less than the first place finish we've become so accustomed to. It didn't take me very long to discover how great ENC fans can be.

The first event I attended where I noticed our positive spirit was the ice cream social. The basketball team had just been defeated by Eastern, and our hopes for a sixth straight tournament win were dimmed, somewhat. But, people weren't giving up. There was talk of going to see bowlers to cheer them on and congratulations to all our ping-pong players for their excellent showing. There was support and words of consolation for the basketball team members. And, there were cheers and applause as the barbershop quartet was sent off to another first place trophy. It was hard to find pessimism or criticism, and wherever it surfaced, someone was quick to remind you that ENC was still the one to beat and we weren't done yet.

Going to events like bowling, barbershop, jogging and volleyball, I was constantly amazed at the magnitude of fan support ENC can produce. Everywhere, there were screaming, clapping, foot-stomping people wearing "Ain't No Stopping Us Now" buttons. Always, there was applause for a job well done, whether you finished first or not, and even if you weren't from ENC. We shared our spirit with Barrington runners, Messiah bowlers, King's quartet, Houghton's volleyball team and anyone else who put out the best they could for their school. I think we helped contribute to what the spirit of King's is really supposed to be.

With everything but the basketball games finished, some rapid work on a calculator showed that to win the tournament we had to have Eastern beat Messiah; otherwise, the tournament was Messiah's by 1 point. We cheered our Crusaders on to a victory over King's and celebrated Mark Carr's 1000th point. Then, we sat back to await the outcome of the final game. Of course, most ENC'ers would find it difficult to just sit through a game so important to us and it didn't take long before we were yelling for Eastern and their "Eagle Rock". With 20 seconds left, it looked like Eastern had won, and some of us were ready to celebrate our sixth victory. But, Messiah hung tough, tied it up and took the game into overtime. Our hopes were wiped away as Messiah pulled away and won the game 81-75. Suddenly, we were out of cheers for Eastern, and it was Messiah's turn to scream, "We're number 1". Believe me, those of you who weren't there, that could have been tough to take. But, something happened that further showed what King's is really all about.

The shouts of We're number 1 faded into Messiah kids singing,

"And can it be, that I should gain an interest in my Saviour's love

. . . .

Amazing love, how can it be,
that thou, my God, shouldst die for me."

Everyone joined in about halfway through and it really didn't seem to matter anymore that we weren't number 1. Messiah showed us how to win with grace. During the Awards Ceremony, as Dean Young proudly presented trophies, we cheered louder when our participants received their awards. But, this year we cheered for others as they accepted their trophies, just as they had clapped for us. Afterwards, "Blessed be the Tie That Binds" seemed to really ring true. Looking back over my 2 days at King's I would have to say I was very proud to be from ENC. We handled ourselves well, both in victory and in defeat. We have many individual performances with which we should be proud. All the participants did a fantastic job representing us. Messiah may have won the tournament, but I think in the long run, we won the real victory.

In retrospect of the season it was disappointing. The players who were expected to return from last year, didn't; this year we lost too many games.

This year the team was challenged in many ways, but most of all it was challenged to be one. One, on and off the field of play. Romans 12:5, "So we being many are one body in Christ . . .", this was the base from which our thoughts sprang. At the close of the season the team was again challenged to be united in every area of our lives. I was personally being challenged to continue my sharing of Christ, showing His relevance for every area of our lives.

Experience will be a key factor this year. Working the new players into a unit along with the guys returning from last year will be quite a test.

As a senior, I feel the pressures of responsibility that go along with being the "old man" of the team.

This year's team has got the potential of being one of the best. I feel that you'll be able to see improvements in every game throughout the season, making for a strong finish.

Anyone who has ever played a sport knows they are never satisfied until they can find a way to make full use of their abilities. This striving for perfection is what makes a good player and a good team.

The Lady Crusaders completed their toughest schedule in eight years by finishing the regular season 33-3, winning the Mass. Div. II championship and participating in the Div. III Eastern Regionals.

The strength the Freshmen added to the veterans gave them the guns. All they had to do was load with Sr. Janet Ranstrom's soft set and the spiking became awesome. Using an aggressive multiple offense enabled them to hit from any front line position.

The State Tourney MVP Award was presented to Lois Malvesti. All-Tourney honors for the New England Invitational Tourney went to Lois and Janet Ranstrom.

Since tournament selection was based on number of matches and strength of schedule the trend is to play several colleges at one scheduled date. This enabled the Lady Crusaders to successfully compete against a wide range of New England teams.

It was indeed an honor to be among the sixteen teams selected for Eastern Regional play. As number four seed the women faced tough competition in their first year as members of EAIAW and AIAW. The seasoning of this experience has provided the gals with the hope of one day playing in a National Tournament.

Challenge, to dare . . . to defy . . . to invite into competition, it has been something of a household word for the Crusader X-Country team this year. After seventeen years of coaching, the last nine years at Keene State College (NH) with a winning percentage of .865, the ENC X-Country program presented a real, personal challenge . . . a dare to instill a winning tradition where true success had yet to fully surface. Indicating a strong interest in a competitive program of distance running and knowing the intent of the group of runners, a challenge was extended in the form of an invitation to compete at the best possible level.

The 1979 season is now history and the extent to which the challenge was met can be seen in the results: a regular season winning percentage of .773 including 17 wins against 5 losses; an overall record of 33 wins and 7 losses for a winning percentage of .825;

runner-up honors in both the Seaboard Conference and NCCAA District I Championships; winners of the 1979 NAIA District 5 Championship; and a respectable 10th place finish of 18 teams in the NCCAA National Championship at Cedarville, Ohio. The "firsts" were many! It was the Crusader's first winning season, first runner-up finish in a conference or district meet, first district championship, and first opportunity to compete at the national level. Individually Steve Noftle and Kevin Fitch earned All-District and All-Conference honors in District 5 of the NAIA, District I of the NCCAA, and in the Seaboard Conference . . . Noftle having earned the NCCAA and Seaboard honors for the second year in a row. Kevin ended the season by finishing a strong 11th place of 136 runners (just short of ALL-AMERICAN recognition) in the NCCAA National Championship.

The requirement of hard work, determination, and dedication is rather obvious. The reason for success is with the team members themselves . . . they dared to believe in themselves. There was a difference this year and that difference was a state of mind. I am grateful for the opportunity to have worked with this group of young men who through faith and hard work found the fruits of their labor to be sweet indeed.

"I therefore so run, not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beateth the air."
I Cor. 9:26.

The commands were given, and I, plus my teammates, plus eight other teams, charged across the first stretch at the beginning of the district championship at Gordon. Of all the races this season, this is the one we'd planned for all year. Before the race the five of us-Steve, Kevin, Allan, Mike and I-encouraged each other and got psyched up. During the race team support was just as essential, as Steve and Kevin led us to a strong field position at the first mile mark, and as Mike, Allan, and I hollered at each other to hold position for the last 2 miles.

At the end, when we'd clinched the district title and had rested up some, I not only was glad to have won, but I was glad as well that God enabled me to overcome physical pain to achieve a specific goal. The Lord can help us do more than our best!

This year is a challenge to me and the team. As the only senior on the team, the players look to me for leadership and as the captain and point guard, I'm responsible for team unity and running the offense. With a few new players and some returning ones, it's exciting to be able to have a part in bringing the team together and playing with eight women who love to play. After all the laughs and good times we have at practice and on van trips, we're ready to play ball as soon as we get to the gym. We're willing to work as a team, and, win or lose, it's as a team. All of us have been given a great deal of talent and each player strives to improve and is willing to sacrifice to be the best player possible and to make the team the best one possible.

Men's Volleyball Club

Each year during the month of January, the men's volleyball club begins their yearly practice for the Nyack Invitational Volleyball Tournament. This year it was held on March 1, and ENC was there, as well as Barrington, Concordia, The King's College, and Nyack. Our team was a young team. But we performed to the best of our ability with Johnathan Cramer, John Chapman, Doug Rhines, Tony Lerch, Rich Hardie and Steve Chambers as spikers, and Dave Kilpatrick, Ray Shalter, and Tim Botterbush as our setters; our coach was Steve Roggenbaum.

The final results found Nyack College in first place followed by The King's College, Concordia, ENC, and Barrington. Johnathan Cramer was given special recognition for his playing by representing us on the All-Tournament Team. Though we didn't take first place, our team has had the experience of the Nyack Tournament, and so next year we will have a veteran team and take that first place!

Cheerleading has provided me the opportunity to be involved in the spirit of ENC in a special way. The effort and hard work has been equalled by great times and good friends. It has been a very rewarding four years thanks to everyone.

Cathy Belle

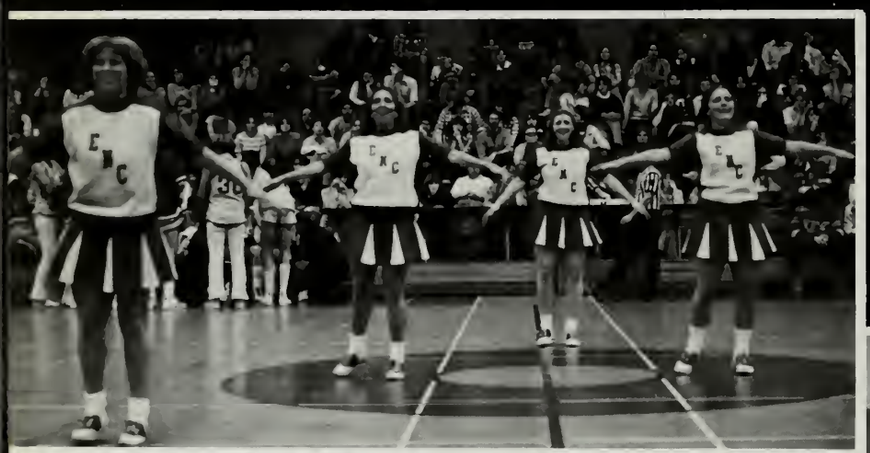

I have never seen a school with so much spirit and enthusiasm as we have here at ENC! The fans encourage the team to win. I am glad that I have had the opportunity to be an ENC cheerleader.

Mary Jean Hall

Cheerleading is my favorite school activity. It's exciting to stand in front of the cheering crowd and really feel the crusader spirit- The supportive attitude of the students is great, and helpful not only in the games, but also in other areas of our college life. It's especially nice to know that here at ENC the spirit does make the difference!

Representing ENC as a cheerleader makes me proud because we (ENC) have so much spirit! "The spirit of ENC makes the difference!", is 100% truth!!

As a cheerleader I am not only a spectator but also a part of the team, which is very important to me.

Michelle Kim

On January 13, these guys decided they wanted to get their picture taken while playing football. So despite the cold and freezing temperatures they played while I froze on the sidelines.

Non-Varsity Sports

During the month of January when classes are earlier in the day and plenty of time for fun at night, you can find lots of people in the fishbowl playing all kinds of card games, chess, backgammon, risk, etc, or the gameroom can also be a place for fun. Here a few people are enjoying themselves with Rook, Uno, backgammon, and one of the most enjoyed games, in the gameroom, Foosball.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council improved greatly as student-oriented organization this year. Under the excellent leadership of Bill Nichols, student body president, the council became involved in every area of student life, from academics to sports to dining habits.

Improvements in the game room, sponsoring a bus to King's Tournament and masterminding an Imperials concert were among the many things this council initiated. The proposing of a Publications and Communications Board to regulate student media was one controversial thing undertaken by this council. Among other things, heightened student interest and participation in student council events were a direct result of this proposal.

Hopefully the record left by this council will prove a starting point for responsibility in student leadership in the future.

Somehow — in between the TV, stereo, records, pop corn, Rook, Uno, gossip, and a lot of fun — the yearbook began recording the year's events. Deciding on producing a Spring book, work began early only because it had to. Pictures were taken, developed, filed; copying over and over became frustrating; layout of pages seemed to take forever; all-nighters became nightmares — yet through it all we kept on working. Deadlines were finished and over with, one week's rest, and back to work on the next one. The office had become routine for almost everyone. But we'll continue on till the end — what a challenge!

TYPICAL

ENCers

Do you think if I put a Spider in the salad anyone will notice?

Typical Freshmen, what else is there to say?

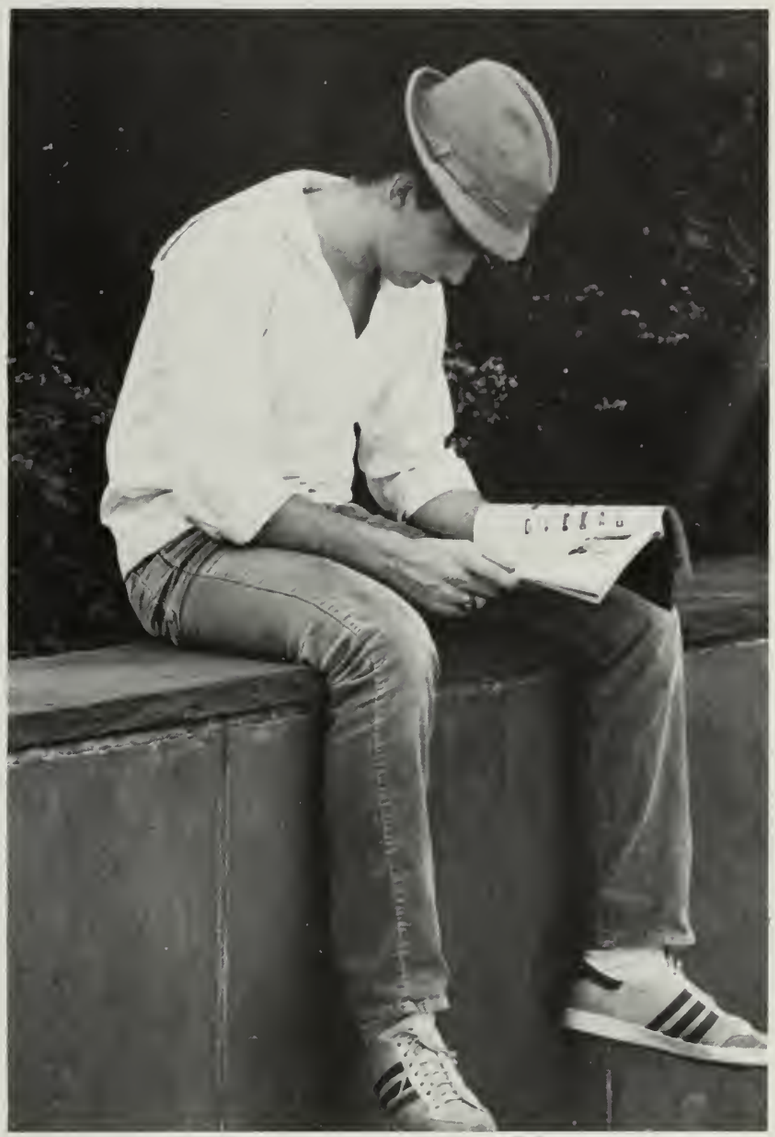

New fad in Photography

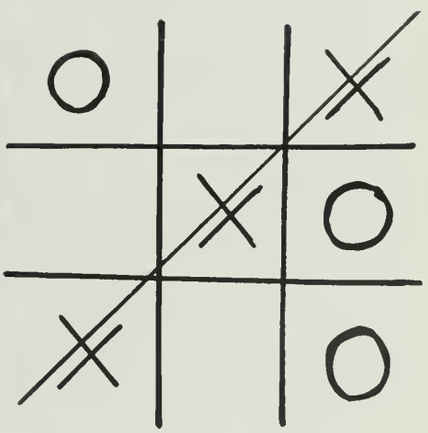

It says that my tuition just went up by 50%.

Finally reading the facts of life, huh?

Well Kevin, That's Life.

I'll bet you can't finish this in one bite like I can.

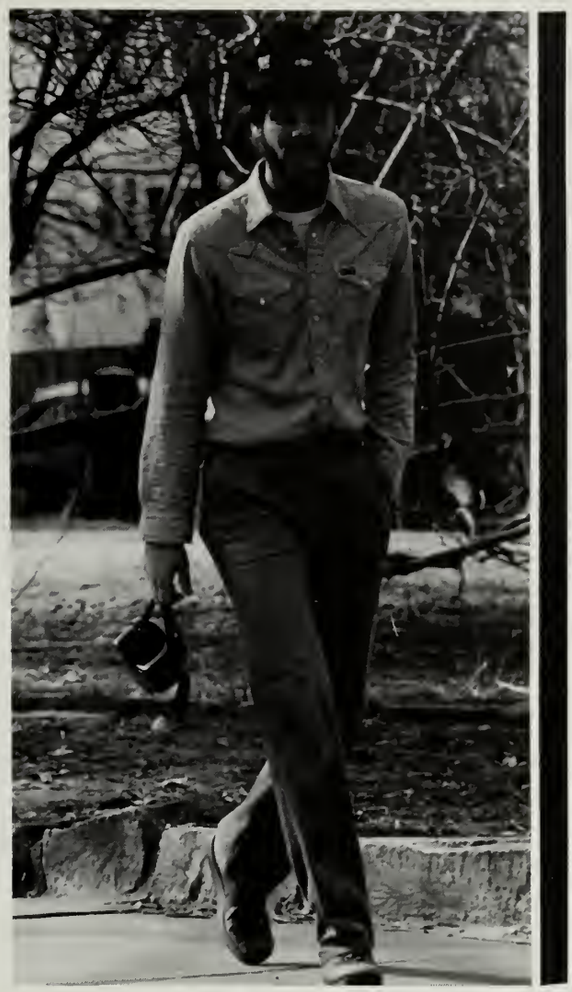

Now what do I do?

Who, me?

Did I ever tell you I'm scared of high places?

Now what?

This line has just got to go.
This is about as exciting as sitting on the bench.

Mother of the year

This is how you cheat under the table

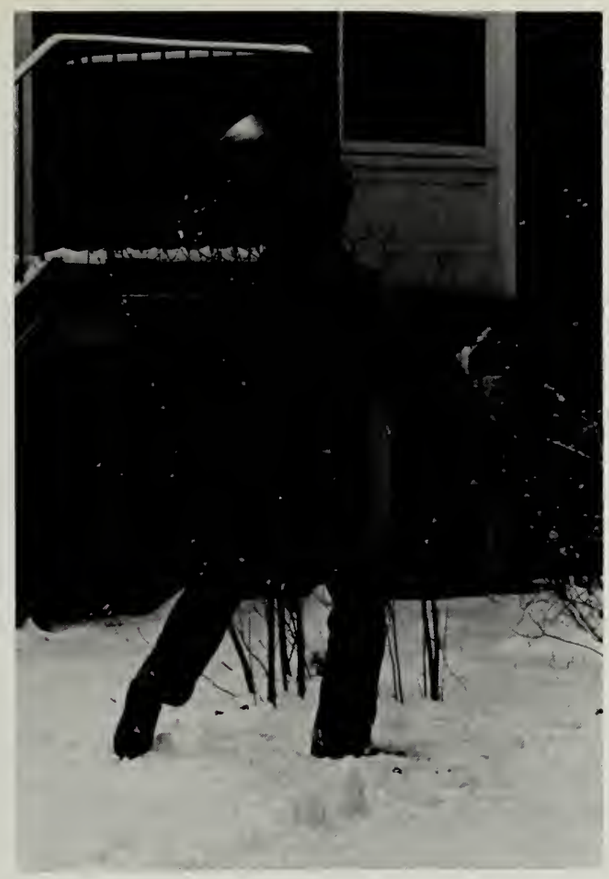

My deoderant sprayed a little too far.

When is that ball going to come down?

"Don't do the crime if you can't serve the time"

I don't believe you guys just said that.

Read the magazines now, study later

"I just washed my hair and I can't do a thing with it."

Piglet, Hambone!!

Rich, what are you painting?

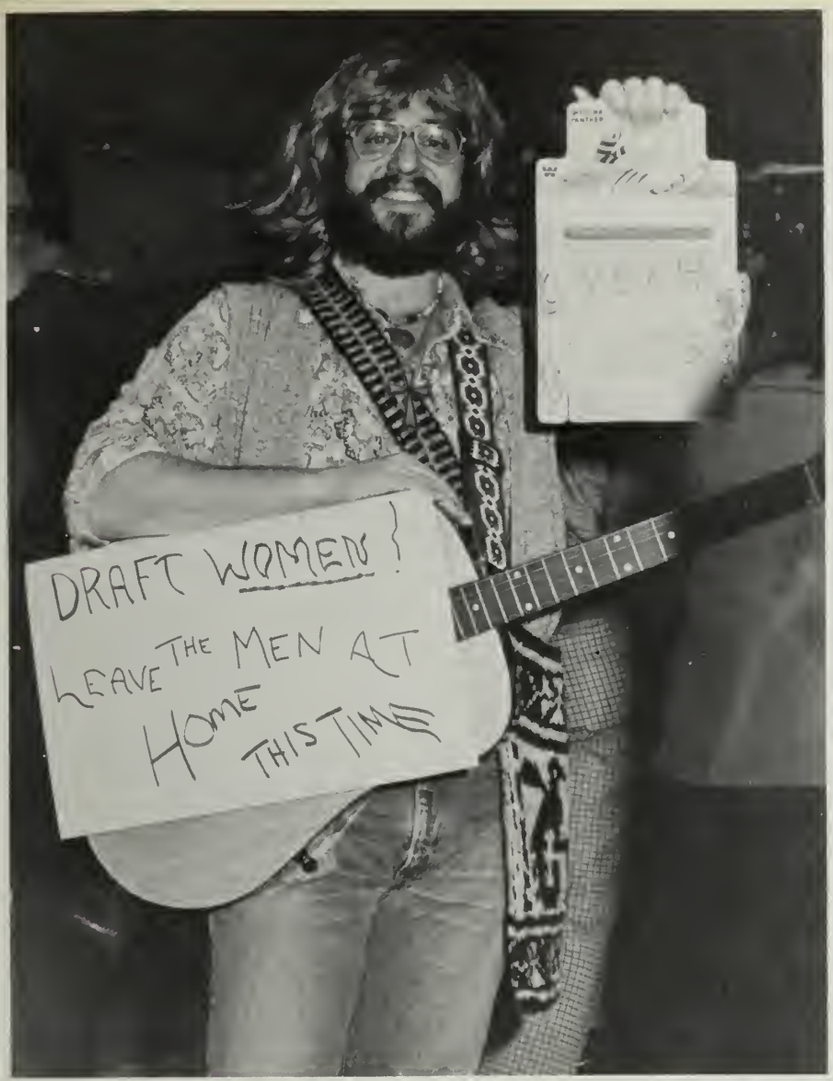

Janie, will you please tell us what is so funny?

Williamson Hall

Built in 1968-69, Williamson Hall was dedicated to honor Mrs. Esther Williamson, who for a number of years has taught voice lessons, directed the A Cappella Choir, acted as head counselor for women, and has been a friend to all. Williamson Hall houses the upperclass women of the college (in addition to Spangenberg) and its nickname is "Willy".

Now girls, you know there's no dancing allowed!

Brad Jr. starting early.

Which one of you am I supposed to choose?

Gardner Hall

"On our return to the campus last September, a glow of pride swept over us as we saw our new Administration Building, the Fowler Memorial .... The Fowler Memorial was the first step towards a bigger and better Eastern Nazarene College .... The fine new building sprang from a vision of the work of Christ lifted high in our Eastern educational zone, a vision only partly realized by those in whose footsteps we are endeavering to follow." (Nautilus, vol. 10)

"... Dr. R. Wayne Gardner, was honored at this year's Founder's Day by the rededication of the Administration Building. The building is to be known as Gardner Hall." (Nautilus, vol. 46.)

It must have been his first game!

Dave must have gotten himself a date for tonight

"I've got love on my mind"

The Canterbury Music Hall

The Canterbury Music Hall, built in 1901, used to be the school's church and chapel meeting place On the main floor was the auditorium where chapel was always held. In the basement was the cafeteria, and the upper floors consisted of classrooms and professors offices.

Today the Canterbury is no longer used for chapel, but is used by the Music Department. The upper floors are still professors offices but double as practice rooms as well. On the top floor there is a music library and a piano lab; in the basement are more practice rooms and the school's print shop. Canterbury, though it is quite old, is still being used to its fullest potential and will always be remembered as one of the most active and useful buildings on the campus.

Care package from home. Only its for you!

Now this is the way to cut classes

If we're to charge adults $1.00 and students 50¢, then what are we to charge you?

The Garage

Not necessarily a building that everyone uses, the garage is where most of the repairs and construction around campus comes from. From electrical wiring, carpentry, and metal-work, to glass windows and mirrors, etc., the garage is where it comes from. Without it we'd be in sad shape, and we really appreciate the work they do.

Hey Scott, who are you hiding inside?

That great, huh?

If I cut this tube here, I wonder what will happen?

Come on, will you play the cards!

Shields Hall

Shields Hall, dedicated in 1965 in honor of former Professor Fred J. Shields, the dormitory holds the men of the college along with those in Memorial. It was built as an add-on to Memorial Hall, to take up the extra number of male students.

I just got a letter signed, "Jane Doe"

Now what are we being accused of doing?

Are you ready for the surprise for today?

Edward Mann Student Center

"Many hours of many memories remain from the cafeteria and dugout. The fellowship and enjoyment could never be replaced . . . but late Spring signaled the closing days for the cafeteria and Dugout . . . . Construction of the new Student Center had begun in the Spring of 1965. The year wears on and students continually watch its progress. The time is Spring 1966, and from open land has sprung the new Student Center. Everyone eagerly enters the building to find the new dinging room, the Crusader Club, the auditorium, mailboxes, lounges, offices and modern facilities . . . . By the end of May 1966, standing massive in the center of campus ready for dedication . . . the Edward S. Mann Student Center." Nautilus, vol. 44.

We welcome you to this institution!

You did what to my roommate?

Determination!

Mr. Nice Guy

Spangenberg Hall

Dedicated to Miss Alice Spangenberg, the Hall was built in 1960-61. It housed the upperclasswomen of the campus, and provided a parlor in which the men and women could enjoy each others company. Today, it still houses the upperclasswomen, along with Williamson Hall, and the parlor is used for enjoyment, Sunday School classrooms, special speakers, and various club meetings.

Oh wow! What a hunk!

Reading history really makes me high

Lucy-breaking her diet or snacking?

Hey Ref, this is what I think of that last call!

Samuel Young Apartments

"Another campus cornerstone was laid at the dedication of the new married students dormitory — a complex of 50 apartments. Trustees as well as Quincy officials participated in this ceremony that marked another year of campus growth." Nautilus, vol. 54

Today, after four years since its' building, the apartments are nearly full, housing not only our married students but some of our professors as well.

Philip, the evangelist

Tell me you didn't take my picture?

Hey guys, what are you looking at?

Well, at least the ice cream is good!

The Greenhouse

Under the direction of Dave Poutre, the greenhouse is the caretaker of the campus. Here, the flowers and bushes are kept and taken care of in the winter and then placed around the campus in the spring. Also, they control the growth of the larger bushes, the trees, and take care of the weeds, etc. Though it seems a minor area of our campus it gives us the beauty of life in the springtime and on special days like; Homecoming; Jr-Sr Day; and Commencement.

Shrader Hall

"Construction of the new science building got well under way in May, 1958. The needs of the science division had been translated into detailed specifications by the science faculty and the architects.

The purpose of this great undertaking is to provide facilities with which to help all of the students of the college to take their places as citizens in a science-conscious world." Nautilus, vol. 37.

Today, Shrader Hall centers around the divisions of Chemistry, Biology, and Physics. Its organic and inorganic labs, computer rooms, a lecture hall, and one of the best microbiology labs in the State makes us proud to have the facilities of Shrader Hall on our campus!

Munro Hall

Munro Hall, built in 1926, continues to be the freshmen girl's dormitory. With all of its steam pipes, cold water, fire alarms, and panty raids, it will always bring memories to most of us-both guys and girls. Dedcated in honor of Miss Bertha Munro (still living), its history gives it a special mea-ing to ENC and will continue to be one of the greatest landmarks of our college.

Angel Hall

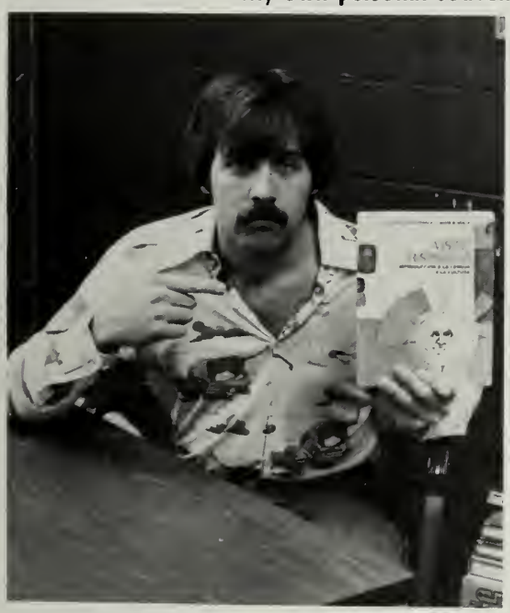

Built in 1969-70, Angel Hall is known better as the Religion building. It holds all of our Religion classes, English classes and Peavey Lecture Hall in the basement is used for any of the large classes. The third floor holds professors offices, small classrooms, and the religion library.

My own personal souvenir!

Lahue Physical Education Center

"The new Lahue Physical Education Center became a concrete reality in 1972-73. All the efforts of the student bodies . . . were realized as the groundbreaking began the necessary procedures for a new gym to be habitated by September 1973", (Vol. 51, Nautilus). Today the Lahue Center hosts our Crusader home basketball games, our indoor society sports, varsity volleyball games, a weight room, and locker rooms for men and women. It is also used for classes in Music and a Kinderhouse as well as classes in Physical Education.

Senior Class Council

From "I'm a dippy little freshmen" to Seniors! We've come four years into trauma; what will we do now? We will survive because we are a class of individuals. We will survive because we've had our experiences both good and bad, yet we have grown from these experiences. These past four years have been a steppingstone from our adolescent past into our adult future. These four years have been shaping and moulding us into who we are and what we stand for. Our faith has been tested and strengthened and is especially being tested now as we consider our future. I am confident that with our faith in Christ, our experiences and our new knowledge we can step out into the world strengthened by these past four years!

Timothy A. Cole
Senior Class President

"Busy" is the word to describe this year's junior class. Aside from regular pizza and notepad sales, the class sponsored two successful film nights and supported King's through the sale of buttons.

The biggest challenge of the year was getting ready for the Junior-Senior Banquet on May 2. Entertainment this year was provided by Found Free, a contemporary christian rock group.

Our Freshman year began with anticipation and enthusiasm. For most of the first semester we spent organizing activities and fund-raisers. But the organizing seemed a waste because we had a limited amount of activities and fund raisers to sponsor. All the ideas we thought of were already taken by other classes and organizations. But we still kept on with a hope for some success.

In October, we sold carmeled apples and made 100% profit; lollipop and sweet tart candies were sold; the Freshman class decorated the cafeteria for Christmas and Valentines Day; in January, we had a roller-skating party; every week we held devotions — sometimes with special speakers; the class picture was scheduled and taken; a visit to Mrs. Munro in February; and many more things to come in the Spring.

Speaking for the council, we have had a successful and exciting year. We want to thank every member of the Freshman class for their contributions to our activities and support.

ENC is a home away from home. The students and professors are all very friendly and helpful. It is a big change from high school and it is a better change, where you develop your own responsibilities and you become independent. Also, you make many new, lasting christian friendships, striving and reaching similar goals of learning and growing together.

I came to ENC with great expectations. I wanted to have a good time, learn more about myself and be the best student on campus. Well I'm not the best student on campus, but I am learning about myself and having a good time. I love it here at ENC. The people are warm and friendly and the professors are caring people. Many times I walk along Wolly beach thanking the Lord for bringing me here. Of course I still have the same old problems that all college students have, but they are easily overcome with the encouragement that I receive from my friends and professors. The location of the school is great, the students are friendly, the faculty is concerned and the Lord is behind us 100%. What more could I ask for?

The positive people in the ENC admissions and financial affairs offices were very important factors in my decision to come here. After two months I am rewarded, exhausted, frustrated and inspired. My four warm, helpful Christian professors are doing their utmost for me. Chapel I like. It is a joy getting to know the students. I am here on a dream, a prayer, and a loan, and with God's help, hope to earn a degree in Social Work. I love you, ENC.

This year the class of '82 has had a tremendous amount of participation in comparison to their freshman year.

The sophomores became a vital key to the success of the freshmen's orientation week activities. They also sponsored an all school swim party, a UNICEF campaign, candy cane sales, easter egg-a-grams, Valentine's Day carnations and May flowers. Not to mention their "famous" danish sales on saturday mornings for all those late risers.

The numerous other responsibilities that they handled throughout the year (Homecoming Queen's reception, bloodmobile, Thanksgiving Day decorations, etc.) were met by success, thanks to hard working council members and devoted volunteers.

Becoming. That's what I'm doing here at ENC. I am not fullfilled, I'm fulfilling. That's what is invigorating to me. My happiness here doesn't come just from my status or my major, it comes from the unfolding revelation of seeing myself as potential finding expression. I find in this community the support of the Christian body that liberates me to overcome fears and become the person I want to be.

To say that life here at ENC can be challenging is somewhat of an understatement. The challenges range from: getting up in the morning for breakfast; to making yourself study for the next day's classes; to gathering the courage to ask that "special" girl out for a date; the list goes on. But during this, my second year at ENC, I'm realizing more and more that the real challenge doesn't lie only in the "school" part of life, but rather in recognizing God's call — and then answering it.

It's hard to express how I feel about my time spent here at ENC. I've learned so much in my time here. I've been challenged by everyone I've come in contact with; my professors, my friends . . . yes, I've even challenged myself. I'm developing into the person God wants me to be, through the love and support of those around me. I think for me, I can honestly say that the Spirit at ENC really has made the difference!

The thing I've appreciated most about ENC is the chance I have to fellowship with other Christians. Many of these Christians face the same struggles I do, and fellowship and sharing with them provides a great chance for spiritual growth and maturity.

Trying to put together a yearbook by yourself is almost an impossible thing to do. And in order for it to be a well-rounded book there has to be many ideas that are coming from different people rather than from one alone. After they have given of their time and thoughts, they need to be recognized.

As my Business Manager, Ruth Griffin has done a tremendous job; I could never thank her enough for the work she has done! She has taken complete care of the books, complete care of all of the advertising section, and has assisted in a lot of the messy busywork of the office. What can I say, Ruth, but thanks!

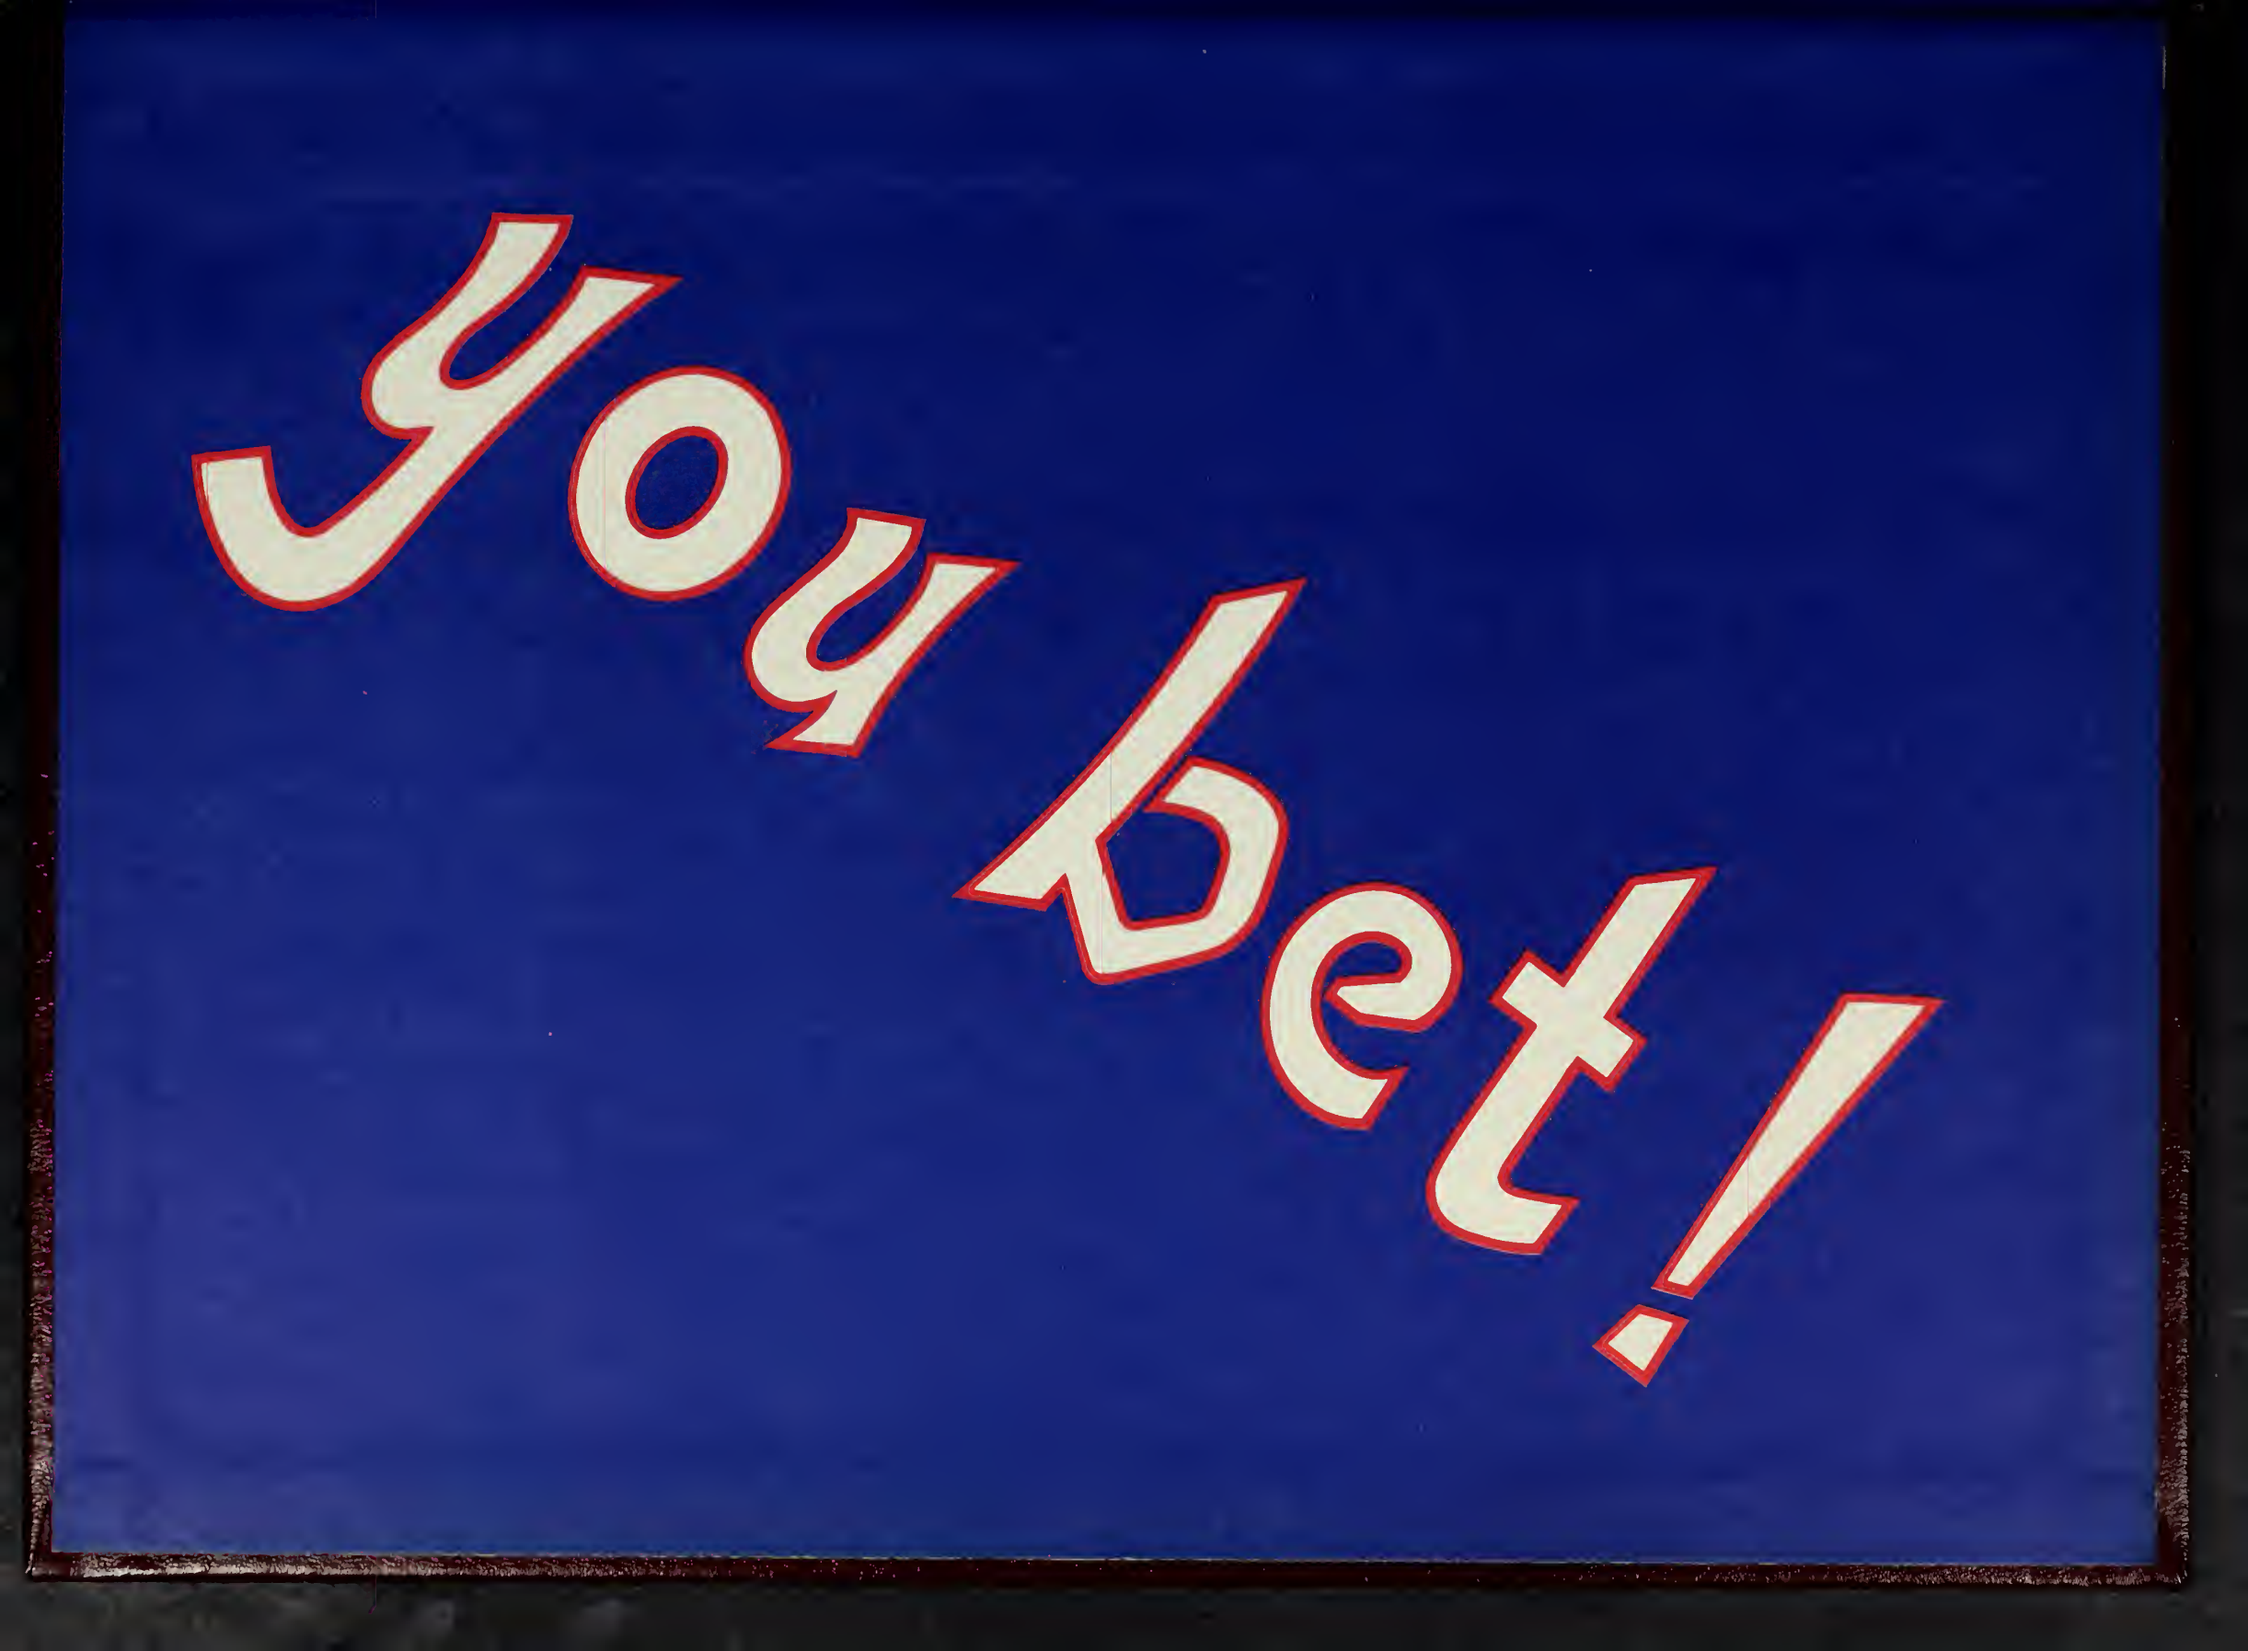

My Photography Editor and fellow photographer, Dave Slobuszewski, I owe a great amount of appreciation to. He has not hesitated a moment when the time came for an appointment to take a picture, or to get a shot when it only will happen once. To a great friend, Dave, thankyou for giving me your time.

To all of those who helped with their ideas, thoughts, arguements, and just for stopping in to say hello — I say thanks. Without your help and support, the book never would have been completed. Thankyou Pam, Tammy, Ann, Andy, Jeff, and Dave and Brenda from the Campus Camera for your help and support.

The theme for this year's book is, "Challenge!" We've looked at it, discussed it, worked on it, and now it is finished. If I ask myself the question that I originally began with, "Will it become a challenge?", my answer, no matter when I answer it, will always be, "YOU BET!"
